

Sign In or Sign Up

Home News Weather Sports Features Health Business GoToAK.com SpeakUpAlaska! About

Stones in the Backpack Alaska's Military Alaska Politics National Politics Valley News Crime Obituaries

HOT TOPICS | Tsunami | Japan Quake | VIDEO: Megan Baldino Signs Off | VIDEO: The Reindeer Cam | Iditarod Coverage | Middle East Unrest Search

Home > News

Nearly Half of Legislature Will Visit DC Next Week

Share 4 tweets 0 retweet

by The Associated Press
11:14 a.m. AKST, February 22, 2011

E-mail Print Share Text Size

Content blocked by your browser

JUNEAU, Alaska Nearly half of the 60-member state Legislature plans to be in Washington, D.C., next week for an Energy Council conference.

Lawmakers defend the annual trip as important given Alaska's heavy reliance on oil. They say it's also an opportunity to meet with decision-makers.

At least 29 lawmakers are expected to attend, according to interviews and lists provided by the majority offices.

The list of attendees includes Reps. Craig Johnson, Carl Gatto, Eric Feige, Reggie Joule, Anna Fairclough, Chris Tuck, Paul Seaton, Lance Pruitt, Neal Foster, Tammie Wilson, Bob Lynn, Alan Austerman, Berta Gardner, Scott Kawasaki and Dan Saddler.

Sens. Gary Stevens, John Coghill, Bettye Davis, Fred Dyson, Johnny Ellis, Cathy Giessel, Lyman Hoffman, Lesil McGuire, Linda Menard, Donny Olson, Joe Paskvan, Bert Stedman, Joe Thomas and Tom Wagoner are also expected to attend.

E-mail Print Digg Twitter Facebook StumbleUpon Share

View Singles in Your Area
VIEW PHOTOS OF: Women NEAR ZIP: VIEW PHOTOS
MJJ1112 is 27
Heyjude2222 is single match.com

Most Viewed Stories

- State Officials Assure Alaskans Radiation Exposure Is Not A Threat
- Japan's nuclear crisis widens
- Couple's Radio Flyer car turns heads on streets
- Baker 1st to Unalakleet as Iditarod Nears Close
- Japan's nuclear crisis widens
- Meltdown fears...Japanese volcano erupts...NJ floodwaters receding
- New hydrogen explosion hits stricken Japanese nuclear power plant
- Baker 1st to Unalakleet as Iditarod Nears Close
- Tsunami Passes Alaska, No Reports of Damage
- When Gas For $1.58 a Gallon was an All-time High

More News Headlines

- Japan's nuclear crisis widens 6:23 a.m.
- US Moves Ships Out of Path of Japan Radiation 7:01 a.m.
- State Officials Assure Alaskans Radiation Exposure Is Not A Threat
- Tsunami alerts in Alaska in the clear
- Sport Halibut Guides In Southeast Fear The Future
- When Gas For $1.58 a Gallon was an All-time High

Comments (1)

Add / View comments | Discussion FAQ

TruthSeeker at 12:27 PM February 22, 2011

Ok, let me get this straight--90 days isn't enough time to conduct business, but they can take a trip during the legislative session. Why can't they conduct business via tele-conference. Guess it really does not matter, either way they are receiving per-diem. However, bet the shopping in Washington D.C. is better. What is the definition of "insanity"--doing the same thing and expecting different results. They have traveled in previous years, yet the Feds continue to thwart are efforts in developing our energy resoures. Senator Begich promised that he'd be able to convince democrats, yet we are still waiting, and waiting and waiting.

Privacy Policy | Terms of Service | 2010 EEO Report | Employment Opportunities |

A Schurz Communications website, powered by Tribune Interactive